

Contact: [Your name]
[Email/Phone number]

[Name or Organizations] to host Gold Fever Global Screening Day event in [City name]

Documentary film screening part of a worldwide discussion on mining harms

On October 17, [City name] will join dozens of communities worldwide to screen Gold Fever, an “eye-opening and inspiring” documentary about the arrival of Goldcorp Inc to a remote Guatemalan village.

The screening, presented by [Name or Organizations] will take place [Day, Date, Time] at [location]. Admission is [cost or donation] and the public is welcome. Following the screening of the film [Name or Organization] will host a discussion of the film. [If applicable: Guests will include [names]]

[Sample quote]: “[I/We insert name] believe that resource extraction is an underreported issue,” said [Name]. “By hosting a screening of Gold Fever as part of Global Screening Day [I/we] hope to shine a light on the harms to health, community and environment brought by transnational industrial mining and the connections to our own communities. As part of a global action, we hope to raise visibility of these issues here in [City name] and show our support, alongside dozens of other communities worldwide.”

Winner of the Rigoberta Menchú Grand Prix at the 2013 Montreal First Peoples Festival, Gold Fever is a hard-hitting documentary about three women resisting a transnational gold mine in their community. Viewing the film, as part of Global Screening Day, is an opportunity to both learn about and discuss the issues, and to show solidarity with people—like Diodora, Crisanta, and Gregoria—experiencing globalized resource extraction.

Dozens of groups, large and small, will screen Gold Fever around the world on October 17. For a map and details of the campaign visit: www.goldfevermovie.com/screening-day

For trailer, screenings and more information: www.goldfevermovie.com
Facebook: www.facebook.com/goldfevermovie.com

“Beautifully-made. Sobering and tragic, but ultimately empowering.”
—The Yes Men

“Eye-Opening and Inspiring”
—The Georgia Straight

“Tests Guatemalan society’s willingness to confront what might be today’s biggest challenge: overcoming the social unrest caused by the massive extraction of natural resources.”
—Uli Stelzner, Muestra de Cine Internacional Memoria Verdad Justicia, Guatemala

goldfevermovie.com